BALDWIN PREPARES FOR BALLOON TRIAL

Mechanics at Work Assembling Machine at Fort Myer.

INVENTOR ADMITS DEBT TO OTHERS

Carries Thirty-Horsepower Motor. Kites Enable Operator to Raise

With the arrival of a force of me chanics and the huge dirigible balloon invented by Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, ed an unusual and active appearance early to make a thorough examination of the gas bag, car, and motor of the balloon, which he expects to sell to the War Department, and he declared himself perfectly satisfied with his outfit, WOMAN to wash dishes and laundry work Nothing now stands in the way of a Glen Echo, Md. 1925-3t and the inventor says that this is a comparatively simple matter, and trouenormous bag was inspected today before-any attempt was made to assemble the numerous parts. The balloon is about ninety feet in length, and has only one balloonet in the gas bag. It has a displacement of 1,280 pounds, and will carry two men. Captain Baldwin will operate and steer the balloon and he will be accompanied in his flights by fore any attempt was made to assemble will be accompanied in his flights by

Mr. Curtis, the expert mechanic who

Combined Many Ideas.

"I have used the ideas of some other my dirigible is a combination of dismany experimenters now working on I believe it will be only a few years before it is solved."

The gas bag of Captain Baldwin's balloon is of silk, re-enforced with rubber, and 's capable of resisting a pres-sure of ninety-five pounds to the square The engine is a 30-horsepower motor and the propellor is placed in the fore part of the motor. Because of the specification of the NIGHT MAN-At the Franklin flat, 1913 14th NIGHT MAN-AT THE FRANKLIN flat, 1913 War Department Captain Baldwin will st. nw.; and elevator i not be permitted to raise and lower his machine by changing his position in the framework. To overcome this restriction he has constructed several box kites to be used as substitutes for his own weight. Eight kites have been RIS, 1104 U st. nw. arranged in sets of four each, fore and aft, on the framework of the car. They are controlled by levers and their po-sition is changed easily by the operator. WAITER-Must be steady and reliable. 171

Scheme to Save Gas. Another feature of the balloon is a contrivance to prevent the rapid escape of was from the mouth of the bay a of gas from the mouth of the bag, a fault which seriously interfered with some of the balloons at the international races at St. Louis last year. Captain Baldwin has made a rubber netting

Captain Baldwin said today that he could not state positively when he would make his trial flight, but unless some-thing unexpected interferes with his plans he will attempt to navigate the atmosphere the latter part of the week,
